

INTERACTIVE BROKERS DISCLOSURE REGARDING THE IMPACT APPLICATION'S AND IMPACT DASHBOARD'S CARBON CREDIT OFFSET FEATURE

The IMPACT Dashboard and the IMPACT Application ("IMPACT") offered by Interactive Brokers ("IBKR") allow clients to purchase and retire carbon credits. A carbon credit is a permit to emit a certain amount of carbon dioxide or other greenhouse gases.

If the client purchases carbon credits through the IMPACT Dashboard's carbon credit offset feature, those credits will be retired (i.e., used to offset carbon output) when the purchase settles, and clients will not be able to sell purchased carbon credits later at a different price.

For clients' convenience, IBKR will display the approximate carbon footprint (expressed in metric tons) of various common activities (e.g., airline flights, electricity and heat consumption, meat consumption, etc.) according to third-party providers and the dollar cost associated with purchasing carbon credits to offset that carbon footprint.

The precise tonnage offset purchased will be displayed to clients after the purchase settles the next day. Clients should note that the price per metric ton and the specific tonnage being offset at time of order preview may be different from the price and tonnage at the time the purchase is actually executed.

IBKR will operate this feature by maintaining a carbon credit inventory and selling carbon credits to clients wishing to use this feature. The feature does not allow clients to specify or control the specific carbon offset project(s) their carbon credit purchase will be applied to, but project information will be made available to clients after the purchase settles.

Carbon credit purchases placed after 4 pm U.S. Eastern Time, will be deemed to be placed the next business day. ALL CARBON CREDIT PURCHASES MADE THROUGH IMPACT ARE NONREFUNDABLE.

This Is Not a Trading Product or Regulated Product Covered by Any Customer Protection Rules.

This feature is not a trading product which can be bought and later sold. Its purpose is solely to allow clients to offset the carbon output of certain of their activities. Clients will not be able to later sell their purchased carbon credits and should have no expectation of being able to generate trading profits as a result of their carbon credit purchase.

Carbon credit offsets are unregulated products. This means that this feature may not be covered by relevant regulatory protections such as complaints and compensation schemes. If you wish to limit your activities to regulated products, please do not use this feature.
